

Environmental Impact Statement Ordinance

An Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) is intended to highlight the impacts of a development proposal on air, water, soil, and animal life. Each municipality has its own standards for determining the types of development proposals that will require an EIS.

A horizontal scale bar representing distance in miles. The scale is marked at 0, 5, 10, and 20 miles. A thick black line segment starts at the 0 mark and ends at the 10 mark, indicating a distance of 10 miles.
